Thomas Cook looks to China with joint venture

Chinese travel habits are changing from predominantly sightseeing trips to all-inclusive resorts with lots of activities and day trips. China's spending on travel is projected to increase by 16% a year and to be worth £404bn by 2020.

Thomas Cook has set its sights on the fastest growing travel market in the world and has formed a joint venture to meet the Chinese demand for holidays at home and overseas. Thomas Cook and its Chinese partner, the diversified conglomerate Fosun, are putting £1.5m into the venture which will be 51% owned by Fosun. 5

Fosun was originally a market research company but has been moving into the travel sector. It recently made a successful takeover of Club Med, another travel company, for £704m. 10

This joint venture is expected to look at developing European resort style hotels in China. It is also targeting the fast-growing market for Chinese travellers going to Europe and other Asian destinations such as the Maldives.

Evidence B

China's Fosun on the prowl for European takeovers

Fosun is looking for more acquisitions in Europe, and particularly Germany, to give it a range of businesses with strong links to China's growing consumer classes. The company has already invested in Club Med and Cirque du Soleil as well as British pram maker Silver Cross, ready for China's latest baby boom.

Fosun is keen to find targets in the food, drinks and tourism sectors and is also looking to healthcare investments such as hospitals, medical equipment and health insurance. Europe is not the only area for Fosun's investment. It also has invested more than $5bn in the USA and $500m in Japan. 5

In financial services, Fosun wants to take over the private banks Hauck & Aufhaeuser in Germany and Anglo-German lender BHF Kleinwort Benson. These takeovers have yet to be approved by regulators in Britain, Belgium and Germany. 10

Doha Round

Since the formation of the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT) in 1947, the predecessor of the World Trade Organization (WTO), all trade agreements have been made on the basis of negotiation rounds. These negotiations cover many different areas, such as tariff reductions and rules for trade. At the end of each round, a single document is produced which all the countries must agree to. This is commonly referred to as a single undertaking.

5

For the past 14 years, the WTO has been unsuccessfully attempting to conclude the Doha Round of Negotiations, also known as the Doha Development Agenda (DDA). The DDA aims to increase trade liberalisation keeping in mind the interest of developing and least developed countries (LDCs).

10

Now, the ministers of the 162 member countries are meeting in Nairobi for the 10th Ministerial Conference to try and conclude the DDA. Though no one is against making trade work for everyone, members have different views on what items, for whom and how much to offer. The WTO principle of the single undertaking – the principle of either accepting everything, or nothing – also prevents members from only adopting the parts they like.

African Union urges agreement to remove global trade barriers

African Union Commission (AUC) Chairperson Nkosazana Dlamini Zuma said on Thursday that African countries would only be satisfied when an agreement to remove barriers to global trade is reached at the WTO ministerial conference in Nairobi.

Ministers of trade and foreign affairs are preparing for the ministerial conference in Nairobi that will determine whether efforts to ease trade barriers can progress to a single undertaking. Ahead of the meeting, China has pledged it would assist African countries and promote trade between the two sides. China has also pledged it would assist Africa in improving industrial capacity by investing in building industrial zones that would help make Africa a new economic power-house.

Brazil to sue mining companies BHP and Vale for $5.2bn over dam disaster

Brazil's government has announced it will sue mining giants BHP Billiton and Vale for $5.2bn after the deadly collapse of a dam at an iron ore mine. It resulted in 60 million cubic meters of mud and mine waste cascading into the Atlantic ocean and left more than 13 people dead.

Environment minister Izabella Teixeira said a lawsuit would be filed demanding that the companies pay for environmental recovery and compensation for the victims. BHP Billiton is the world's biggest mining company and Vale is the world's biggest iron ore specialist and it is hoped that these corporations will co-operate with the government.

Jhatkaa.org urges people to pledge #WontBuyUnilever

Jhatkaa.org is a public mobilisation group fighting against the alleged mercury contamination by Unilever in India. It has launched a follow-up campaign to its earlier successful 'Kodaikanal Won't' rap video. Called #WontBuyUnilever, the campaign urges consumers and people in general to take a pledge to boycott Unilever's products.

The campaign is being supported by South Indian actors Bobby Simha, Rohini and Kalai Raani who have pledged not to use or endorse any products by the company until it clears up the thermometer factory premises at Kodaikanal, which is allegedly contaminated with mercury. 5

The 'Kodaikanal Won't' rap video caused controversy on social media by questioning Unilever's silence on the dumping of toxic waste by the company. After the video went viral, Unilever responded in a post on its official website stating that the safety of its employees is its number one priority. 10
